

Our company :

Dial-Once only works with companies that have large volume of inbound/outbound calls and that needs to be digitized. Our customers are focused on addressing three main problems :

- They are worried the impact standard customer care has on their brand and their future revenues as they realise nobody likes to experience the dreaded "Press 1, press 2, etc..".
- They are conscious that not only they need to bring their customers into a digital, self-served mechanism without disrupting their customer's habits but also have to acquire data to optimise their customer journey.
- They are aware of the disconnect between the cost of a call and the value it brings to them, they are focused on implementing cost saving solutions.

A funded start-up operating notably across in France, and currently expanding its activities, Dial-Once works with large multinational organisations in telecoms, insurances, logistics, energy and other sectors.
